PEKING

1924.

FOREWORD

Though not free from defects, the Peking Who's Who and Directory has demonstrated its worth as a compendium of useful information. The biographical section, though larger than in the three previous issues, is not yet as complete as it might be, due largely to the diffidence or modesty of many whose names ought to be found in its pages. Information as to Government services has been more difficult to obtain this year, for reasons which are fairly obvious. Numerous changes have occurred in the hong list and in the list of residents, but these have been purged and added to, bringing them fairly up to date. In conclusion, the Publisher wishes to express his gratitude to the many who co-operated in the compilation and to tender thanks for the ready response to the applications for verification and revision.

AN INTERNATIONAL COMPANY

The Sun Life of Canada is often referred to as the Great International Company, and with good reason. Its activities have long extended beyond the boundaries of the country of its origin and beyond the limits of the Empire of which the Dominion forms a part. Today its operations are conducted in more than forty countries; its policy holders are obedient to many flags; they represent many races, and customs, and creeds. And yet the policy they hold gives evidence of feelings common to all—feelings of prudence, foresight, and thought for those who look to them for protection.

It may be said that the Sun Life of Canada has established its own miniature League of Nations by drawing together a vast array of thoughtful citizens of many countries into a common brotherhood of interest and interdependence. We know of no better antidote than this to the reckless doctrines of extremists who would have us believe that the millennium may be reached through the destructive instruments of confiscation and revolution, rather than by the promotion of individual peace and prosperity and responsibility. We seek to secure the conquests of civilization by the law of love and every policy sold promotes this beneficent purpose and helps to secure the best interests of the people of the world.

WHY TAKE RISKS?

You can be relieved of most uncertainties by insurance.

You can protect your family against your death by insurance.

You can insure against loss by fire or burglary of your household goods and effects.

You can insure yourself against accident or sickness.

Why then should you carry unnecessary risks when you can transfer them?
